

Foreign News.

By the arrival of the schooner Vaquero, Capt. Newell, 41 days from Melbourne, we have received intelligence to Nov. 3, from New Zealand, to Sept. 26, from India to Sept. 11. The Victoria gold mines continue prolific and lucrative; they have yielded from January 1 to October 20, 1857, 2,087,583 ozs., or a value of £8,087,661.

We find Chilean Flour quoted at £22 to £23 per ton; Maize, 10s. to 10s 6d per bushel; Irish Beef, £3-10s; Mess Pork, £4 per bbl. Coffee, Ceylon Plantation, 11d to 1s.

Of local Australian matters we find nothing interesting outside the colony, unless an enterprise to navigate and connect the lakes of the upper districts by steam.

From Auckland, New Zealand, we learn that the Nelson and Aore gold fields are developing themselves at a rapid rate.

The Baron de Thierry (whom many of our readers remember in Honolulu) was manufacturing flax at Auckland, from the native Phormium Tenax, and sanguine of success.

Sir Collin Campbell had assumed the chief command in India. From Delhi, by the way of Lahore and Madras, Sept. 2, it was said that an immediate assault would be made on the city. The Sepoys were greatly straightened within the city for provisions and ammunition, and most of all a leader. They had threatened to slaughter bullocks in front of the Jumna Musjeed, on Eed day. So there was the probability of a row between the Mahometans and Hindoos. New mutinies in the upper provinces of India were still reported, and it was thought would continue so until there was not a Bengal corps left to rebel.

We learn that Dr. George M. Bates, of Lahaina, (oldest son of Asher B. Bates, Esq., of this place,) intends, within a few days, to sail for Hakodadi, in Japan, where he expects to establish himself as a physician and surgeon, taking with him everything necessary to the practice of his profession, and for supplying ships' medicine chests. We notice this fact with an interest enhanced on account of the numerous whalers cruising within a moderate distance of Dr. Bates' new location, thus affording an opportunity, in case of casualties to life or limb, of consulting, without a great loss of time, a thorough-bred physician and surgeon. Dr. Bates is a pupil of Dr. Z. Pitcher, of Detroit, and attended medical lectures at the University of Michigan; he afterwards studied under Professor Willard Parker, of New York City, and graduated at the "College of Physicians and Surgeons of the New York State University," and during his residence in both Detroit and New York, was a daily attendant at the various hospitals. We believe the United States, in conformity with the Japan treaty, have already a Commercial or Naval Agent at Hakodadi. If we are correctly informed, the Bates family is a good illustration of the migratory spirit of the New England people. The Dr.'s grandmother was the second white woman settled in the then wilderness of the West, beyond the Cayuga lakes, in the State of New York; his father brought up in "the heart of the Pacific," and the Dr. himself takes the newly-opened shores of Japan for his future residence.
